We Have Arrived!

AD787

After an arduous journey across the North Sea, we have finally reached our destination – England. The feeble, afraid Englishmen tried to stop us but we were too powerful and fought our way, as brutally as was necessary, onto the green and lush land.

We are here to find treasures (and probably steal them) before we return to our homes in Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

Our first raid was of the monastery at Lindisfarne, which was not very well protected and contained valuable goods like gold and jewels, imported foods and other useful materials for trade.

England is more pleasant and lucrative than we thought!
